IN THE OLD EAST ROOM.

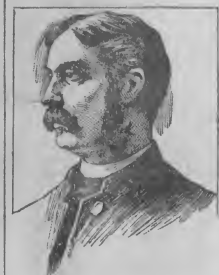

Preparations About Complete For Marriage of Miss Roosevelt.

WILL GO TO FLORIDA.

The "Princess" Will Be Handsomely Gowned for the Occasion.

Washington, Feb. 12.—The arrangements for the marriage in the white house have about been completed. The wedding of Miss Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the president, to Representative Nicholas Longworth, will take place at the white house at noon Saturday, February 17. The ceremony which will be performed in the historic east room, will be solemnized by Rt. Rev. Henry Y. Satterlee, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Washington. There will be no bridesmaids.

The groom's best man will be Thomas Nelson Perkins, of Boston, a classmate and longtime friend. Three of Mr. Longworth's classmates and a college mate at Harvard, B. A. Wallingford, Jr., of Cincinnati, who married Mr. Longworth's oldest sister, Larz Anderson, of Washington, great grandson of the Longworth family fortune, Viscount Charles De Chambrun, brother of Count Adolphe De Chambrun.

BISHOP H. Y. SATTERLEE.
Who Performs the Longworth-Roosevelt Marriage Ceremony.

The wedding invitations. One thousand invitations to the wedding have been issued. Those invited exclusive of the wedding party include the members of the cabinet and their wives, former members of the cabinet who are now in the United States senate and their wives, the heads of the foreign embassies and missions and their wives, the official members of the party which accompanied Secretary Taft to the Orient, the white delegation in congress and the New York delegation in congress. Late in the afternoon Mr. Longworth and his bride will leave Washington on a trip to Florida, traveling in a special car. After the adjournment of congress they expect to make a trip to Europe.

Miss Alice Roosevelt will not be the only handsomely gown woman at her wedding. The simple fact is that never in the history of weddings in this country have there been such preparations for resplendent gowns. The dressmakers of five cities—Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston—say that never before in their experience have such orders for wedding costumes been placed with them. Society women like Mrs. John Jacob Astor are combining their wealth and taste and the art of the most skillful dressmakers to be as beautifully gown as possible for Miss Alice's wedding.

As the white house already is taxed how to dispose of the great mass of wedding gifts, just what Miss Alice is to do with them in the house which she is to occupy as Mrs. Longworth is difficult to decide.

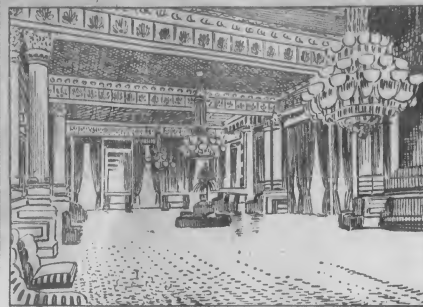

Police Items.

In the past four days the police had made five arrests, as follows: John Myers, col., breach of the peace.

A white man for drunkenness. George Ratcliffe, col., carrying concealed deadly weapons.

Frank M. Goodwin, col., jumping from moving train.

Henry Orndorff, breach of the peace.

MAGNIFICENT EAST ROOM OF THE WHITE HOUSE. In Which the Longworth-Roosevelt Marriage Ceremony Occurs.

This magnificent room has been the scene of many brilliant social functions extending over a period of many years since the rebuilding of the White House in 1818. It is here the president's receptions are held, and it is in this room that several of the previous White House weddings have occurred, the room being handsomely decorated for those occasions, and especially was this true at the time of the marriage of the daughter of President Grant. It is magnificent in proportions, as well as in decoration, being 40 by 80 feet.

ANDERSON-GARY.

Brilliant Nuptials of Popular Young Couple.

The wedding of Miss Lillian Gary to Mr. Arthur B. Anderson, of Nashville, last night, brought a number of visitors to the city. Although the event had not transpired when this paper went to press, the marriage was expected to be one of exceptional brilliancy. The Baptist church was profusely decorated for the occasion. Mr. Anderson and his best man, Mr. Geo. W. Hight, arrived Tuesday. Yesterday several other friends of the groom arrived and were called upon at 2:30 o'clock by a number of prominent citizens. Dr. B. F. Cabell, of Bowling Green, also arrived to perform the marriage ceremony. The bride received many beautiful and costly bridal presents, which were greatly admired by her friends. She was also entertained Tuesday afternoon by the Oumsee Club, of which she is a member, at the home of Miss Jean McKee. The members of the club were among the limited number of guests who made up the bridal party at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Gary, following the wedding.

Mr. Anderson is a leading young lawyer of Nashville, of increasing prominence in his profession. His bride is one of Hopkinsville's prettiest girls; bright, beautiful, highly accomplished and a gifted performer on the violin.

The happy event took place on the 22nd anniversary of the marriage of her parents.

An Explanation.

In our issue of Tuesday we stated that the county committee had arranged with the Imperial Tobacco Company for members of the Association to sell and deliver their tobacco to that company. Chairman Radford says that this trade does not yet include this county and is in force only in Robertson and Montgomery counties, though by fall such a trade may be consummated for Christian. Mr. Radford also says that we did not understand his remarks at Monday's meeting in regard to disposing of the supply of lugs. He says that the Association had an offer for all the lug crop, but the committee did not accept the offer. Farmers will govern themselves accordingly on the two points above mentioned until further officially advised.

STOLE A MARCH

And Were United In Nashville Monday.

McKenzie, Ky., Feb. 13.—Mr. Harvey Hunt, of Mrs. S. H. Gannon, both of this place, went over to Nashville yesterday morning and were married upon arrival there.

Mr. Hunt is a well known young man and his bride is a charming and unusually pretty young widow, in her twenties. They returned the following day, but will move to Mt. Juliet, Tenn., seventeen miles from Nashville, to make their home. The wedding leaves another popular young bachelor in a very disconsolate state of mind.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Empire Operator Gets Both Legs Broken By a Train.

HIS NAME WAS LeGATE.

It Is Not Thought That the Injuries Will Prove Fatal.

Crofton, Ky., Feb. 14.—Hendrix LeGate, telegraph operator at New Empire, was found lying near the railroad track in Mannington last night about 11 o'clock, with both legs broken and one foot minus three toes.

The supposition is that he fell, in attempting to board a freight train for the purpose of returning home where he works as night operator. His right leg was broken near the hip and the left limb was fractured below the knee. It is thought he will lose one leg. LeGate was brought to New Empire this morning where he is under the care of surgeons.

RAISES FOUR-LEAF CLOVER.

Amsterdam Professor Has Become an Adept in the Art of Controlling Work of Nature.

Four-leafed clovers may be grown in abundance on lawns or in flower beds. The raising of four-leafed clovers has been made possible by Prof. De Vries, of Amsterdam, who has found a plant bearing six or seven four-leafed clovers, capable of being transplanted. He first sowed them, and since then he has had a new generation each year. Each time he chose his seeds from a fourth of the best plants; that is, from those which had the most four or five-leafed clovers. It was the third generation which began to be rich in the desired form of leaflets, but only with four and five-leaflets, and these only in the seed plant. During August and September of the same year he remarked a very few with seven leaflets. At this point he selected his selection to a severe standard. He chose for his progenitors only those plants having two thirds of all their leaves with four or more leaflets. But he had discovered a curious fact that much simplified his selection from then on. In sowing clover one may observe that the first leaf of each young and subsequent leaflets have regularly three leaflets. This knowledge made it possible for him to make his selection much more quickly. He had only to choose the young clovers with compound leaves and transplant them from his glass house to his garden, leaving the others to perish. Thus he did not need so many hundred individuals as before, though each year he still selected some thousands of seedlings from their sowing pots. At last, after eight years of effort, the new variety of clover came into existence. Of this crop nearly all young plants and their first leaf compound, and all, with few exceptions, were five leafed.

WORLD'S OLDEST INDUSTRY

Salt Mining in the Dead Sea Survival of Ancient Industry—Work Near Jordan's Mouth.

There are in the Holy Land but few industries and these of the most primitive kind, says the Technical World. The awful desolation of the Dead sea, however, which lies nearly 1,300 feet below the level of the Mediterranean, is broken here and there by the salt dunes, whose work is probably as ancient as the human race itself. From remotest antiquity the salt of the Dead sea has been collected and brought to the Jerusalem market, where it is used for curing hides and for domestic purposes. Dead sea water contains over 25 per cent. of solid substance, of which seven per cent. is chloride of sodium, or common salt. It is chloride of magnesium which gives the water its horribly bitter taste, while the chloride of calcium makes it feel smooth and oily to the touch, so that after the very curious sensation of a bath in the Dead sea, the skin retains an oily sensation.

The Dead sea contains no living creature; sea fish put into its waters quickly die. Not a single boat navigates its strange waters, nor is there any sign of life, save the isolated parties of salt divers, who scrape and slowly amass their precious glistening heaps of crystal near the mouth of the Jordan. When a sufficient cargo is made ready a long string of camels crosses the desert; and the salt is loaded up into panniers or "shweres," and taken into Jerusalem, where it finds a ready market.

"Oh, but, mother," expostulated the young wife, "if I cook my beef Harold will eat it all and there will be nothing left for croquettes and things."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Getting Back.
"Don't be afraid of me, miss," said the masher; "I wouldn't kill a flea."
"No, I don't think you would," said the bright girl; "it takes a clever man to kill a flea."—Yonkers Statesman.

ORIGIN OF THE HAT BAND.

Reasons for the Plume on the Left Side and Buttons on the Coat Told by Lecturer.

Wilfred Webb, at a meeting of the Windsor and Eton Societies and Archaeological societies in London, recently spoke interestingly of the evolution of dress.

From prehistoric drawings it would appear, he said, that our early ancestors were clothed with hair and had little necessity for artificial covering. Judging from primitive races at the present day, clothing was not first adopted as a protection from the weather.

Just as the zoologist learns much concerning the ancestry of animals from the little features which survive in their bodily structure, so can the history of dress be evolved. Starting with the hat, it was shown that the hat band can be traced to a fillet which held in shape a simple piece of cloth. Sometimes this fillet was tied in a bow behind, the tails of which survive in the Scotch cap, the sailor hat and the bishop's mitre.

A little bow inside the lining of the hat is the survival of a fillet which kept the lining in shape, or possibly takes us back to a time when a hat was made by putting a string through holes in a flat piece of leather, and by tightening it, producing a crown. The plumes in hats are on the left side because in early times the adornments were so big that they would have seriously interfered with the use of the sword if worn on the right. The helmet of the Roman is practically identical with those worn by the ancient Greeks.

The large white collar, such as Milton wore, is still in a smaller form worn by the clergymen who preach in Geneva gowns and by the monks. Buttons on coat sleeves point to a time when coats were very costly, and it was customary to turn back the sleeves so that they should not be soiled.

Mr. Webb also discussed the origin of the two buttons on the back of the coat, and said he could find no satisfactory reason why in European countries the buttons on men's clothes should be always on the right side and those of the women on the left.

The possible connection between the ornamentation on modern boots and the openwork shoes of the Romans was pointed out. The fact that a "clock" means a "gusset" suggested that the ornamentation which we know by the former name may have been originally intended to hide the joints in a stocking when it was made from pieces of cloth.

MOONSTROKE—SEA DANGER

Sailor Relates Yarn of Queer Incident on Long Voyage—Till from Effects Two Days.

"People laugh at moonstrokes," said a sailor. "They call them shellbacks' superstition. I once had a moonstroke, though, and I tell you it was no laughing matter."

"In a full moon, one night in the tropics, I fell asleep on deck. The moon shone directly on me. I lay in a white pool of moonlight. So three hours went by."

"Then, when they woke me, I felt like a man in a dream. My mouth hung open, as it does when I sleep, and I couldn't close it, and my head lay over on the side and I couldn't straighten it out."

"No! I understand what people said to me, nor could I lobby orders. Voices I'd hear far away, but they seemed meaningless, unpleasant. I was very drowsy. All I wanted was sleep."

"They worked on me for two days, rubbing me down with cold water and dosing me with castor oil, before they brought me round. And always, after that, I have been careful never to sleep where the moon's rays could get at me. My moonstroke happened eight years ago, but still at every full moon I am stupid and drowsy, my head droops a little to one side and my mouth tends to hang open."

"There's many a sailor has been moonstruck; but this accident never befalls landmen. Landmen, you see, never sleep out of doors."

Discovered by Excavating.
British excavations at Gnossoes are worthily recalled by those carried on by the Italian Archaeological Mission at Hagia Triada and at Phaistos, in the central zone or island, and along the side of the coast looking toward Africa. Among other places laid bare is a burial ground from which about 200 skeletons have been removed. Examinations of these remains show the race to have been of Mediterranean origin, and to date back from 17 to 19 centuries before Christ. They were ignorant of cremation, and placed their dead in sarcophagi of terra cotta. Writing on tablets of terra cotta shows that linear type of writing which preceded that common at Gnossoes. Paintings taken from hunting incidents and other ornamental works have also been discovered.

TOOK PLACE IN BROADWAY

An Incident with a Surprise at the End for One Small Girl Spectator.

It is not only the ladies in furs and the big feeble old gentlemen in broadcloth that the policeman plods safely across the street. He makes way there as well for cripples, contraband and children. In fact for all who need his help and protection, says the New York Sun.

So there was seen the other day, a tall, calm policeman striding across Broadway toward two small children who had been out gathering refuse wood which they were now carrying home for firewood. One of them, a girl of perhaps 12, wore a little old fashioned shawl and had balanced on her head a bundle as big around as her own body and as long. The other, a boy of nine, carried on his head a bundle of wood likewise as big as himself.

The two came up together, but with the girl as leader, to the big policeman standing on the corner, and he, with no delay at all, but with quite as much attention as he would have shown to anyone, started on with them across the street, holding up a warning hand to drivers, where that was needed, as he went. Probably there could come to his post nobody to whom the big policeman would give kinder and safer care than he did to these two small children carrying the big bundles of wood.

But to some of the passersby the sight of the policeman escorting the two little wood gatherers over so was at least something out of the usual, and a little knot of people, men, women and children on their mother shopping, gathered on either side of the street to see the incident through. Standing by one of these corners, close by the curb in the interesting street, was the handsome and trimly-saddled horse of a mounted policeman, his rider being at that moment dismounted and standing in the street a few feet away, looking after the traffic there.

This horse seemed to become interested in a little girl that was standing there with her mother, and very quietly he moved forward, close to her. And when the policeman on the crossing had finally got the children over and had started back himself, and the people who had been watching him faced around to start on this little girl found the handsome police horse standing there looking at her and with his nose all but touching her coat sleeve.

She certainly was a little startled, but she wasn't scared, and she was pleased, and she stepped back closer to her mother and looked up at her and smiled, and the mother smiled at the little girl and then at the horse, and the two went on together still smiling and still quite wrought up over this—for them—quite unexpected ending of the incident.

But there are things happening in Broadway all the time, and even the little things may be interesting.

PRESENTATION AT COURT.

Correct Dress Is Absolutely Necessary When Brought Before Court of England.

A crowd had assembled to see us start, robes Harper's Bazar. I fondly imagined it was an admiring crowd; but I soon knew better. Eventually we entered St. James' Park and fell into line among the miles of carriages that stretched along the broad street known as the Mall, which leads up to the palace. Here, too, crowds were assembled, and for over an hour we were entirely at the mercy of the people who gazed in at the windows and criticised us most cruelly, considering our entire helplessness. Indeed, we were not sorry when our carriage dashed through the gates of the palace and drew up before the main entrance.

To my terror we were invited into a side room where the royal drawers inspected us as a last precaution. We passed muster, fortunately, and then trooped with the crowd up the grand staircase. Half way up we passed one of the queen's pages, who took from me one of my pink cards, at the same time shooting a keen glance at me to see if I were dressed "according to regulations."

Cold Wave.

The weather forecast sent out from Louisville yesterday was as follows: Cold wave to-night. Thursday fair and cold.

PROMPT WORK NEEDED.

The Commercial Club and City Council should both take some action to counteract the bad effects of the prosecution of the business enterprises and educational institutions of the city by Commonwealth's Attorney Smith, for alleged violations by them of certain legal technicalities before they had been in this State long enough to become familiar with Kentucky laws. The Home Telephone Company is one of the enterprises that has been in Hopkinsville only about eighteen months. Its promoters came from Ohio and have invested large capital here and elsewhere in this State. They deserve encouragement rather than such prosecution as Mr. Smith has inaugurated. Still worse is the case of Lockyer's Business College, which opened here a year ago a branch of its main College at Evansville, Ind. It came here to supply a need of the city, being cordially welcomed by our people, and yet before it has been a year it is sued for failing to put the word "Incorporated" on its sign. Such treatment of one of our educational institutions is a reflection upon the whole community. These suits, it so happened, were filed the very week that our people were trying to get other large corporations to invest their money in Hopkinsville, and our people feel justly indignant at this unexpected obstacle thrown in the way of building up "Greater Hopkinsville." What is the use of exempting new enterprises from taxation and inviting them to Hopkinsville if they are to be welcomed with a broadside of litigation, designed to extort money in the name of the State, when only $12 out of every $100 finds its way into the public treasury. Resolutions should at once be adopted entreating Mr. Smith to refrain from this kind of prosecution of the enterprises that may be induced to come to Kentucky and especially to our own city. It is to be hoped that Mr. Smith can be induced to dismiss the suits that are calculated to do our city so great harm.

One of the most drastic measures yet proposed to break up "patrolting," is a bill introduced into the General Assembly to prohibit the use of self-defense by a man who is proven to have had a concealed weapon on his person. This will almost do the work, if it becomes a law.

The Foraker amendment to the Statehood bill provides that the people of both Arizona and New Mexico must by a majority vote approve the consolidation into one State, or the act will become null and void.

In a fight in Monroe county, that arose over a discussion of the guilt of Caleb Powers, a man bearing the very similar name of Calum Powell was shot and killed by James Wright.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by all druggists. 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Rheumatism

Is one of the constitutional diseases. It manifests itself in local aches and pains, inflamed joints and stiff muscles,—but it cannot be cured by local applications. It requires constitutional treatment acting through the blood, and the best is a course of the great medicine which has permanently cured thousands of cases.

For testimonials of remarkable cures send for Book on Rheumatism, No. 7, C. I. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass.

Representative W. H. Southall is considering the question of becoming a candidate for railroad commissioner next year, against McD. Ferguson. The Courier-Journal says: "Mr. Southall is one of the youngest members of the present General Assembly and already has made a record. This is his first term, but he is now well known and has won his way rapidly. He is a good politician and is well liked in Frankfort."

Judge Corden, a Federal Judge at Tampa, Fla., fined C. R. Hark, editor of the Tampa Herald, $100 and ordered him held in custody until fine was paid because the editor stated in his paper that the Judge held up some gambling cases to sound public opinion. Is this America or Russia.

The divorce convention meets in Washington next week, and a strong representation from forty-two States is assured. The sessions will be held in the Willard Hotel. Gov. Beckham, John D. Carroll, J. Wheeler Campbell and R. W. Miller are designated as the four Kentucky delegates.

Capt. Norman E. Webb, a well known capitalist of Birmingham, Ala., committed suicide while the other members of the family were at breakfast, by sending a bullet through his forehead. Ill health is the ascribed cause.

Mal Jon. Thomas, President of the N. C. & St. L. Railroad, and for many years a prominent railway man died in Nashville Monday, of heart failure. He was 76 years old.

FORMAL ACTION

Thanking Mr. Rash For His Princely Donation.

The ministers of Hopkinsville, at the regular Monday morning session of the Ministerial Association, Feb. 12th, 1906, passed the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, It has come to our knowledge that Mr. Jas. R. Rash, of Earlington, has within the week just passed, given South Kentucky College the sum of ten thousand dollars, as a memorial of his son, the late Mr. Ben Rash; and

WHEREAS, We, as citizens and ministers of the town, are concerned for all our local institutions, and for none more for the christian schools of higher education; and

WHEREAS, We, as ministers, are solicitous to see material wealth devoted to moral and spiritual purposes:

RESOLVED, That we express our approbation of the munificent gift of Jas. R. Rash and our admiration of the noble monument which he has thus erected in perpetual memory of his son.

RESOLVED, That we congratulate most heartily the trustees of the college upon provision for discharge of the debt under which the institution has long struggled.

RESOLVED, That we congratulate not less sincerely, the whole community, than the cause of christian education, in this section of the South, upon the help afforded by the gift and example of Mr. Rash, which will doubtless prove a wholesome stimulus to philanthropy.

RESOLVED, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, published in our local papers, mailed Mr. Rash and furnished the Secretary of the Board of Trustees of South Kentucky College.

ENTHUSIASTS ARE SURE

The Cotton Mill Stock Will All Be Sold in a Jiffy.

OUTSIDERS ANXIOUS

Mr. Clair Is Expected Here For a Conference Tomorrow.

Whether or not all people may want to see the great cotton mill plant located here, it seems an assured fact.

From the talk to be heard at almost every street corner and in offices, the project seems to have leaped beyond the grounds of probability and has about landed in the realm of certainty. Men who were supposed to be liable to regard the mills as unworthy of consideration have openly expressed themselves as for it, and many who are able to signify their desire to put some of their money into it. Applications for stock have been made from parties outside, and some of our local capitalists will invest in blocks of stock.

The committee is moving along steadily but quietly, not doing a great deal of talking, but considering carefully every phase of the question, and when it does speak there will be no uncertain ring in what it says. These men, appointed by Dr. Jackson, the President of the Commercial Club, are gentlemen in whom our people have the utmost confidence, and what they may give out to the public in a few days may be relied upon as being just what they represent it to be.

In our last issue we laid before our readers what had been said by some of our leading business men, believing that pro and con opinions were due everyone. We can positively say, as then stated, we are not setting ourselves up as advisers on such questions. Our business is to give the news and not play the role of exploiter. So far as we can see there is no reason why this great enterprise should not meet with the encouragement the prime movers claim it should. On its face it seems just one of the great things that Hopkinsville needs at this point in her history. If the city is ever to be what we hope it will, this will be another great step in the attainment of other industries to come after it. Why should we not have a large woolen mill as well as a cotton mill? Logically this would be the very next thing to follow.

We understand that Mr. Clair will be in the city tomorrow for another conference. He is not a man to chase shadows or toy with bubbles. His business is to look after the interest of the I. C. the greatest railroad corporation in this country. He is out after business, and being a business man, he has men enough to know this city has men of business capacity. So rest assured that if Mr. Clair and the committee arrive at a thorough understanding "something is going to happen."

Negotiations are Pending.

Editor Hopkinsville Kentuckian: Referring to your report of the Farmers Meeting in your issue of the 13th. Will say that your report is in some points misleading. No contract is yet made between the Imperial and the Association. No member can as yet sell his tobacco loose without authority of the Executive Committee. Negotiations are pending and when any arrangement is effected the farmers will be notified. Hopkinsville, Ky., C. F. Jarrett, Feb. 14, 1906. Sale-man.

THE WHITE HOUSE WEDDING.

President Roosevelt Makes a Statement to the Public.

Washington, Feb. 10. President Roosevelt authorized the following statement, which was given out at the white house:

"The President and Mrs. Roosevelt ask the kind consideration of many friends who would under ordinary circumstances receive invitations to Miss Roosevelt's wedding. The capacity of the white house for guests is limited to the closest kindred, the personal friends of Miss Roosevelt and Mr. Longworth and certain classes of officials in Washington. No friends of the President or Mrs. Roosevelt are being asked unless they also come within one of these classes; and even with these limitations the number of guests traveling to exceed the capacity of the white house."

Galveston's Sea Wall

makes life now as safe in that city as on the higher upland. E. W. Goodloe, who resides on Dutton St., Waco, Tex., needs no sea wall for safety. He writes, "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption the past five years and it keeps me well and safe. Before that time I had a cough which for years had been growing worse. Now its gone. Cures chronic Coughs, La Grippe, Croup, Whooping Cough and prevents Pneumonia. Pleasant to take. Every bottle guaranteed at R. C. Hardwick's drug store. Prices 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free."

Mrs. Josephine K. Henry, of Versailles, delivered the principal address at the funeral of the atheist editor Chas. C. Moore, at Lexington, Ky.

A Mystery Solved.

"How to keep off periodic attacks of biliousness and habitual constipation was a mystery that Dr. King's New Life Pills solved for me," writes John N. Pleasant, of Madison, Ind. The only pills that are guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction to everybody or money refunded. Only 25c at R. C. Hardwick's drug store.

Ohio has passed a two-cent-per-mile rate for railroads in that State and the Pennsylvania road announces that it will give the rate a fair trial before making a protest.

DIVIDEND Oil and Mining Stocks,

Other high grade 6 per cent. guaranteed interest preferred stocks and bonds for sale. OSAGE OILS with $5. 15, Lease 97, has been brought in during the month as so well equal to any on the lease and is now a good producer. Well No. 12, Lease 97, has been drilled and is flowing well. This makes it well independent of No. 13, on lease 97, owned by the four Companies, drilled with out a single "dry hole."

The four Osage Oil Companies owning the above wells have returned to stock holders during the year in monthly dividends, the sum of $200,000, against an actual investment in property and development of approximately $600,000, with a handsome surplus yet remaining in their profit fund. All profits independent of No. 13, on lease 97, owned by the four Companies, drilled with out a single "dry hole."

Withdrawal of all stocks the stock of the four Companies, have been entirely withdrawn from the market. An announcement will probably be made no later than January 15, of the entire withdrawal from the market of the stock of the Interstate Osage Petroleum Co., which will begin dividends in January at the same rate as the other four Osage Petroleum Companies. This Company has not yet begun to produce oil, but it has a surplus in its profit fund of practically $100,000 at the present time available for dividends. Any customer desiring to secure this stock will have to send in their subscription prior to the date of its withdrawal.

The Interstate Osage Petroleum Co. now has in its profit fund approximately $300,000, against an investment in the property and development of some of less than $1,000,000, which is a remarkable record for the Osage Petroleum for 1905.

STURDY FARMERS KEEP OFF ALL CATARRHAL ILLS BY TAKING PE-RU-NA.

Pe-ru-na
Cures
Catarrh
Wherever Located.

Pe-ru-na a Necessity in the Home.

J. B. Alexander, Publisher of the "Fruit and Floral Guide, A Magazine of Horticulture," published in Hartford City, Ind., says of Peruna:

"I was afflicted with catarrh of the throat and head for over ten years; I was treated by many physicians, but grew worse until I was seldom able to go out in cold weather.

"About one year ago I was advised to try Peruna, which I did, and I am now entirely well of the catarrh.

"Peruna is a necessity in our home. With the first symptoms of a cold we use it, and are never afflicted with catarrh.

"I advise all who are afflicted with catarrh to try Peruna. There is certainly nothing equal to it as a catarrh medicine."—J. B. Alexander.

Pe-ru-na is a Systemic Remedy.

"Peruna will cure catarrh in one place. It will cure it in any other place, because it is a systemic remedy.

Peruna Always on Hand.

Mr. Fred Schnell, Lakeview, Erie Co., N. Y., writes:

"I had been a sufferer for more than thirty years with catarrh of the intestines. I had used a great deal of medicine to no avail, so I decided to try Peruna.

"I have now used thirteen bottles and can give you the joyful tidings that I have no more trouble. I always keep Peruna on hand."—Fred Schnell.

The people generally are very much misinformed as to the nature of catarrh. Catarrh is usually believed to be confined to the head, nose and throat. Latterly we sometimes hear of catarrh of the stomach and catarrh of the bladder. Seldom, if ever, do we hear of catarrh of any other organ.

It is not because these organs are not subject to catarrh, nor that catarrh of these organs is not a very common disease, but simply because it is not generally known that affections of these organs may be due to catarrh.

Had Catarrh Thirty Years—Pe-ru-na Cured Him.

Mr. Gustav M. Schmidt, Spring Valley, Ill., writes:

"I had catarrh of the head and throat for over thirty years. It became worse every year.

"About three months ago I commenced to take Peruna and Manalin, and now I am entirely cured of that troublesome sickness. Your medicine is surely a blessing to mankind.

"You can truly say that you have not lived in vain, Doctor, and I thank you for the good you have done me. May you enjoy a long life to help suffering humanity."—Gustav M. Schmidt.

Dr. Hartman Makes Personal Use of Pe-ru-na.

In speaking of his own personal use of Peruna, Dr. Hartman says:

"For a number of years my professional duties have compelled me to be much on the road, traveling long distances by rail, night and day, exposed to all kinds of vicissitudes, sleeping and eating in different hotels continually, and through it all I have preserved myself from any derangement of the body resulting from catching cold.

"At the slightest evidence of a cold, a few doses of Peruna invariably checked it."

Mr. Henry Schroeder, Route 2, Napoleon, O., writes:

"I suffered for almost ten years with catarrh of the stomach and all doctoring was of no avail.

"I took nine bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin and am now entirely cured.

"I recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this disease.

It is my household friend."—Henry Schroeder.

A Farmer's Talk to Farmers.

Before Dr. Hartman began the study of medicine he was a farmer boy. He was brought up on a farm in Southern Pennsylvania.

He belonged to that industrial, successful class of farmers known as the Pennsylvania Dutch, the best farmers in the world.

It was here that he early learned the lesson of pulling obnoxious things out by the roots.

Dr. Hartman's Method of Treating Catarrh.

Naturally, when he began the study of medicine his mind turned instinctively toward the removing of causes. He could not content himself with doctoring symptoms any more than his enterprising father could have contented himself by pulling off the tops of weeds to eradicate them from the soil.

The Doctor turned his attention early to the science of removing the cause of diseases, believing that obnoxious symptoms would disappear if the cause of the disease was removed.

In other words, Dr. Hartman applied the common sense of the practical farmer to medicine, and after much experimentation Peruna was compounded.

The sensible farmer does not think of cutting off the tops of weeds to kill them. He pulls them up by the roots.

Dr. Hartman Interested in Farming.

Notwithstanding Dr. Hartman's busy professional career, he still continues to be interested in farming. He is the owner and manager of one of the largest farms in the State of Ohio, with several thousand acres of the best tilled land in the Middle West, and with hundreds of the best blooded percheron horses ever imported or raised in this country.

Dr. Hartman relies upon Peruna entirely in case of sickness in his own family.

At Work on the Farm—Praises Pe-ru-na.

Geo. H. Thompson, Raleigh, Miss., writes:

"I have been cured of catarrh by your medicine, Peruna and Manalin. I had been afflicted with catarrh of the stomach about all my life, and was taken had every spring and summer.

"I used several kinds of patent medicines, but they did me no good. I then took a treatment under an M. D., which did me but little good. By this time I had got where I could eat nothing but a little soup. I had severe pains, had lost in weight and could not do anything.

"I began taking your medicine, Peruna and Manalin. I then weighed 126 pounds, but after taking 12 bottles of Peruna and one bottle of Manalin, I weighed 166 pounds.

"I am now at work on the farm and feel well all of the time. I eat all I want to and my friends say that I look better than ever before. I will ever praise Peruna for its healing power."—Geo. H. Thompson.

Man-alin is a modern, up-to-date laxative; pleasant to take, mild in action and sure to overcome constipation. It is an efficient cathartic for adults and children take it readily. Full directions accompany each bottle.

SENT TO ASYLUM.

Lelia Smith Adjudged Insane Second Time.

A woman by the name of Lelia Smith, a native of Hartford, this State, was admitted to the Asylum as a patient for the second time this morning. About 12 years ago she was declared a lunatic and sent to the asylum, and after being there awhile was pronounced sane and released by the superintendent. Going back to her old home she was unable to find her mother and worked for different people. Her mother is supposed to have been sent to the same institution, but there is no proof of this statement. The woman, feeling that her old mental trouble was coming on again went to the asylum and stated her condition and was taken in until a jury could be impeached and determine whether she was a fit subject.

SOIL FOR ANALYSIS.

Several Samples Sent To State College at Lexington.

J. B. Walker, who was appointed to secure samples of soil from Christian county farms and send it to the Experiment Station at the State College, Lexington, for analysis, yesterday shipped 12 samples from seven farms, two being taken from some of them. The farmers who were called upon for soil were J. D. Clardy, J. R. Caudle, E. Caudle and G. H. Stowe, of Newstead; J. A. Brown and J. W. Foard, Church Hill; and R. L. Moseley, Casky. The object of analysis is to determine what the soil needs to produce clover, which it is almost impossible to raise of late years.

WHISKEY AND GLOVES

May Send Two Negroes to the Pen.

Two arrests for highway robbery were made last Monday by the sheriff. It seems that a negro by the name of Ben Kendrick was stopped and searched in regular highway robbery style on his way home, near Bell's Station. It is claimed that the robbers were two other negroes bearing the names of Charles Saunders and Arthur Titman, Kendrick only had a pair of gloves and a bottle of whiskey that was considered worth taking. Their value was really nothing, but the manner in which they went into another party's possession, will, if proven, put the negroes in the penitentiary for a while. The supposed robbers are now in jail here.

Mr. H. S. Giesmer has gone to Pennsylvania, to be absent a week or more.

The German students of Bethel and South Kentucky colleges were entertained on the evening of Feb. 10, in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Williams, on South Virginia street. The charming little hostess, Miss Viola Williams, assisted by her sister, Miss Walker, extended to each a cordial welcome, requesting that "Deutsch" be spoken exclusively during the evening. Several special features, in the way of contests, "matchings," adverbs, etc., increased the enjoyment of the reception, all of which were conducted in the foreign tongue. After the above the young ladies were securely veiled and an auction in German in which some of the "Machers" brought a million dollars, decided the arrangement of couples for the refreshments. The "Deutsch lunch" was elegantly served, consisting of salad, nut and chocolate courses. At a late hour the merry makers dispersed with many a "Gute nacht!" said and many a congratulation expressed to the kind hostess, who had so charmingly entertained.

Common Colds are the Cause of Many Serious Diseases.

Physicians who have gained a national reputation as analysts of the cause of various diseases, claim that if catching cold could be avoided a long list of dangerous ailments would never be heard of. Every one knows that pneumonia and consumption originate from a cold, and chronic catarrh, bronchitis, and all throat and lung trouble are aggravated and rendered more serious by each fresh attack. Do not risk your life or take any chances. You must have a cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure it before these diseases develop. This remedy contains no opium, morphine or other harmful drug and has thirty years of reputation back of it, gained by its cures under every condition. For sale by: L. L. Elgin and Anderson & Fowler, the Up-to-Date druggists at Hopkinsville.

Itch—Ringworm!

E. T. Lucas, Wingo, Ky., writes, April 25, 1902: "For 10 to 12 years I have been afflicted with a malady known as the 'itch.' The itching was most unbearable. I was tried for years to find relief, having tried all remedies I could hear of, besides a number of doctors. I wish to state that one single application of Ballard's Snow Liniment cured me completely and permanently. Since then I have used the liniment on two separate occasions and it cured completely. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Cook & Higgins.

Wee Macgregor

By J. J. BELL

Copyright, 1905, by Joseph J. Bell.

"Maw," said the small boy for the twenty-third time since the Robinson family began their perambulations in Arvill street—"maw!"

"What let ye're wantin' now, Mac?" asked his mother, not without irritation in her voice.

"Maw, here a sweetie shop."

"Well, what about it? Ye'll get yer candy in the shop, ye maw!"

"I want it now, maw."

"Deed, then ye'll jist have to wait. Ye might think shame o' yerseel, wantin' candy after ye've got two apples an' a pie."

"But I'm hungry yet."

This seemed to amuse his mother, for she laughed and called to a big man in front of her, who was carrying a little girl. "John, Macgregor's sayin' he's hungry."

"Are ye hungry, Macgregor?" said John, hating and turning to his son, with a twinkle in his eye. "Ye'll be wantin' a scone, maybe."

Macgregor looked offended, and his mother remarked: "Not him! It's the sweetie shops that's makin' him hungry. But I've tellt him he's to get no candy till the mornin'!"

"Oye, what's that sayin', Macgregor?" said his father. Then, "Come on, Jazze, an' we'll get him a bit sweetie to taste his mouth."

"Ye jist jist jist in the shop, maw!" said Lizzie, moving, however, with a good intention smile to the shop-window.

"But mind, it's to be barley-sugar. I'll no have him flin' his stomach wi' fancy things. See an' get barley-sugar, John, an' wee Jeanie! I'll get a bit of it. Will ye not, my darlin'?"

she demanded sweetly of the child in her husband's arms. "Wee Jeanie be pressed delight in things unobtainable to anyone but her mother."

"I want tablet," said Macgregor to his father, in a whisper, rendered hoarse with emotion at the sight of the good things in the window.

His mother was not intended to hear him, but she did. "Tablet?" she exclaimed. "Children that get tablet get ill after."

The boy's nether lip protruded and trembled ominously. "Och, Lizzie," said John, "ye're sayin' thinkin' about the future. A wee bit tablet'll do the liddle no harm. Indeed, no! An' I think ye like a bit barley-sugar."

"Ay, that's right, John. But ye're surely not forgettin' what the doctor said when Macgregor was lyin' badly after ye had him at the exhibition. He said Macgregor had a weak digestion. And we was to be careful what he eat. An' I was readin' in the Companion jist the other night that there was nothin' worse for the digestion than nuts, an' a tablet's jist full o' nuts."

"Och, well," said his husband, evidently overcome by her reasoning, "I'll get barley-sugar. Wait a bit, Jeanie!" And he entered the shop.

When he rejoined his family he handed the "wholesome sweetie" to his wife, who first of all extracted a short end for wee Jeanie, wrapping one end of it in a scrap of paper torn from the "poke." Macgregor accepted his share in gloomy silence, and presently the party resumed their walk. John again carrying his daughter, who from time to time dabbed his countenance with the wet end of her barley-sugar in a fitful desire to give him a taste.

Having proceeded west about 100 yards, they were called to a halt by Lizzie at the door of a big warehouse. "I'm goin' in here, John," she said. "I'm wantin' a bit of red flannel for a gown fur wee Jeanie."

"Nabbin' fur yerseel, Lizzie!" his wife looked at something in one of the windows rather wistfully. "It's over dear," she murmured.

"It's not so dead," said John, thoughtfully.

"Well, it's good stuff. But I'm right unwilling to pay so much fur what I might do without. An' Macgregor's needin' a new bonnet."

"His bonnet's fine. Jist, ye go in, Lizzie, an' buy what ye've got yer eye on. We'll see about a bonnet after. Dood, ye might as well have yer New Year's day, woman, like their folk. Away with ye!"

"I'll tak' wee Jeanie with me," said Lizzie, looking pleased. "I'm sure yer arm's tired wi' handlin' her. She'll be gettin' a big lante—aye, ye not, my dear?" She stepped into the doorway, but returned for a moment. "See an' keep a grip on Macgregor, John, an' ray!"

"Och, ay! Him an' me! I'll jist tak' a bit o' it an' come down till ye come out. Havin' wiped from his brow all sticky traces of his father's affection, and set his pipe going with several long breaths of satisfaction, he held out his hand to his son, with "Come on, Macgregor!"

Macgregor, who had just into the big one, and they set off slowly along the crowded pavements, stopping frequently to see the sights of the street and the windows, while the younger asked innumerable questions, mostly unanswerable.

"Have ye ett yer barley-sugar?" asked his father, during a pause in the childish queries.

"Ay, I've ett it—it's not as nice as tablet, paw."

"But ye've no be carin' fur tablet ay?"

"Tablet's awful good," returned Macgregor, guardedly, with a glance upward at his father's face. "Willie Thomson's paw gies him tablet sometimes."

"Awel, Macgregor, I'm not going to give ye tablet. But if ye was puttin' yer hand in my pocket ye might—Ye've not to let an' to yer maw, mind!"

The scrupled Macgregor's hand was already busy and a moment later his jaws were likewise.

"Ye've burst the poke, ye rascal," said John, feeling in his pocket. "Now, ye've got to no more till the mornin'. Yer maw would give it to me if she kent ye was eatin' almost nothin'!"

"I'll not tell," said Macgregor, generously.

As they approached the warehouse once more, John carefully wiped his nose. Macgregor, endeavoring to assume an expression of indifference.

However, when Lizzie joined them she was too pleased and proud for the moment to see anything.

"Give Jeanie to me," said John. "No, no! I'll carry her a wee. I got a seat in the shop. But I'll give my parcel. I'll maybe go in yer pocket."

"Jist," said her husband, as he stuffed in the long, brown-paper package. "Did ye get what ye wanted?"

"Aye, I got it. I want ye down a shillin'."

"Ye're a real smart woman! Come, an' we'll go an' see the wax-works. See," said Macgregor, "I would like to be a wax-work when I was dead."

"Hold yer tongue, Macgregor," said his mother. John, ye should check him, where he says such awful things."

"Aw, the boy's all right, Lizzie. Macgregor, ye're not to say that again, he added, with an attempt at solemnity.

"Why is folk made into wax-works?" inquired his son, not greatly abashed. "Oh, jist to amuse their folk."

"But why?" Macgregor's inquiry was interrupted by his colliding violently with a bag carried by a gentleman hurrying for his train.

"Ye see what ye get fur not lookin' where ye're goin'," said his mother. "Put his bonnet straight, John. Poor maw, it was a very bad knock," she added, gently.

"I'm no cryin' maw," said Macgregor, in a quavering voice, rubbing his eyes with his cuff.

"That's a brave lad!" said Lizzie. "Never heed, Macgregor! Ye'll be a man afore yer mother!" said John. Thus consoled, the boy trotted on with his parents till they reached the gaudy entrance of the wax-works.

"Now, I'll take Jeanie," said the husband.

"Ay; that'll be the best way to go in. An' I'll take the parcel, fur it'll be in yer road." So saying, Lizzie handed her charge to John. Then she pulled the parcel from his pocket; and lo and behold! It came out accompanied by audacious fragments of tablet, which fell on the pavement.

John would have dropped anything else but his present burden. Macgregor gazed at the dainties at his feet, but did not dare attempt to seize them. "Children that get tablet from one to the other, it was a tablet worth o' wax."

But who can follow the workings of the childish mind? Two tears crept into Macgregor's eyes as he raised them fearfully to his mother's face.

"I've never ett any," he mumbled. The expression on Lizzie's face changed to astonishment.

"What's that ye say?"

"I-paw never ett any," the boy repeated.

And then, of a sudden, Lizzie's astonishment became amusement.

"Deed, we'll jist a pair o' children!" And she laughed against her will.

"It was all my fault, Lizzie," said John. "Ye should have put the tablet in yer other pocket! Eh? No, no, Macgregor, ye'll jist let the tablet lie," she exclaimed as the boy stooped to seize it.

"There's no muid on it, maw."

"Ay, but there is. Come awa!" And away Macgregor was pulled to see the wax-works.

But why did "maw" wink at his son and point stealthily to his "pooch?"

This is one of the best homes in Hopkinsville. It has five large rooms, large hall, front and back porches, one cabin which rents for $4 per month; stable with 4 stalls, crib and large loft; buggy house; one fine tobacco barn; good meat house and other outbuildings; two good cis-the lot furnishes stock water all the year round. This place is a fine home or can be divided into lots to advantage if desired. Price low and terms easy. I am going West on

According to reports in commission and produce circles, storage eggs are having a hard "row to hoe" this winter. The weather has been so favorable to the production of fresh eggs, and the hens have been laying so steadily, that there has been little or no market for stored eggs all winter. Last year and the year before a great deal of money was made out of eggs stored in cold storage, when they were cheap, and sold out during the long period of sleep when hens do not lay. This year the winter has been open, and the hens are laying eggs in sufficient quantities to supply the demand. In consequence of this the price of fresh eggs is now about what the price of stored eggs was last year at this time, and stored eggs are selling in the neighborhood of 10 cents a dozen, having cost from 12 to 15 cents. There are from 7,000 to 8,000 cases of eggs held here. There are thirty dozen eggs in each case. It is reported that Chicago has upward of 100,000 cases on hand.

New York is equally as well loaded up, with little or no prospect of selling out, unless there develops shortly a protracted spell of sleet and snow.—Louisville Post.

SOUSA'S BAND

Tabernacle Friday Night, March 2.

"Music soothes the savage breast," according to the poet, and it also stills the crying child, fires the soldier to martial vigor, and inspires man and maiden to sweet thoughts of love and kindred joys. However, a new demonstration of the power of music was given in St. Petersburg, when Sousa and his American band played there not long ago.

The morning after the concert a uniformed lackey left a small package at Sousa's hotel, and when the bandmaster unfolded the fastenings, he found a pair of long, white ladies' gloves, and a note addressed to himself, written on crested and perfumed note-paper. It read as follows, in English:

"Dear Mr. Sousa:—I had the pleasure of being at your concert last evening and derived great enjoyment from your beautiful music and your playing of it—too much enjoyment by far, I fear, as the accompanying enclosure will testify. I wore the gloves last evening, and feel sure that every lady present went home in the same state. However, I feel sure that my sacrifice was but a small one, in the cause of true art. Respectfully, and yet gratefully, yours, OLGA W."

Sousa drew forth the gloves, and found that they were split into shreds. He vows that his native gallantry would have forced him to send the enthusiastic lady a new pair of the finest gloves, had she not, with true Russian delicacy, omitted to put her address in the letter. The fair-Sousa auditors of the future should note the moral of this narrative and take the popular bandmaster at his word.

Years ago it was declared by a celebrated dramatic critic that all of the possible complications had been worked into productions for the stage. Broadhurst strongly refuses this theory in giving to the stage his brightest farce, "Why Smith Left Home." All of the complications in this are new and the lines are sparkling with the purest wit. Differing as it does from all other farces, the action of the play does not depend upon one person, but around each of the twelve characters is thrown some complications to draw them prominently into the story.

John Smith, recently married, who has been greatly annoyed by the continued visits of his wife's relatives is elated over the probable early departure of the last of them when a telegram announces the proposed visit of his wife's uncle and aunt. Their arrival starts the complications which grow more and more tangled until everyone misunderstands and misunderstands everyone else. In addition to the visit of Mrs. Smith's uncle and aunt other visitors begin to arrive until the house is full to overflowing with relatives and friends. In his despair Smith appeals to the cook, who by the way is Secretary of the "Cook Ladies Union" and the President of the "House-working Ladies Protective Association," for assistance and they together devise a plan to rid the house of the unwelcome guests. Through the stupidity of Mrs. Smith's uncle, who has been taken into the scheme, their plans miscarry and still more complications are added to the already tangled state of affairs. Count Von Gugenheim, a wealthy German nobleman, arrives and offers his hand in marriage to the maiden sister of Smith. Just as the wedding is about to take place "Lieber Gott" the count finds that he has "got em twisted" and the wedding is declared off. A day of understanding comes however and all is adjusted.

This roaring farce will be seen at the Opera House to-morrow night. The sale of seats indicates a full house.

COLORD HOBOES.

Who Broke Out of Jail are Still at Large

Nothing has been heard from the two negro hobos who escaped from the city lock up Sunday night. They probably lost no time in quitting the city. One was in 27 for days for carrying a razor and the other 11 days for jumping a moving train. They had served about half of their time. They saved a heavy scuffling across a window, that held the iron bars, using a small saw about eight inches long and half an inch wide. They also used a hot poker to burn the wooden timbers. Their escape was reported at 11:15 p. m. by another prisoner. The hole through which the crawled was about eight by twenty inches.

THE MOST IMPRESSIVE

Scene Ever Enacted in a Stage Drama.

The scene of all scenes in the great religious drama, "Ben-Hur," is the miracle on Mount Olivet, with which the performance terminates. This final scene in the drama shows the reunion of "Ben-Hur," his mother and his sister, after the passing of Christ in Jerusalem. The mother and sister of Hur, who were stricken with leprosy, have been cleansed by the Nazarene, and they are surrounded by a wondering multitude who sing praise to Jesus of Nazareth.

In this incident of the drama Christ does not appear as a personality. The curtain rises on the gathering of the multitude who come out of Jerusalem to worship him, waving branches of palms and singing anthems. The lepers appear, guided by Amrah, the faithful servant of the house of Hur, Christ passes higher up the mount. The afflicted ones raise their hands to him in supplication and a great shaft of wonderfully brilliant light, suggestive of his presence, falls on their heads, and they are healed.

In the book story, the tale embraces the Crucifixion. This incident could not, of course, have a place in any dramatic presentation except the passion play, performed at the Gbrammurg every ten years as a religious rite. Ending with the miracle scene, the drama of "Ben-Hur" maintains the religious interest of the story in a most remarkably effective way, at the same time treating it with the utmost reticence and respect. The music introduced in this scene is equal to that heard in Grand Opera. As the curtain falls, the chorus of two hundred voices sings in canon form, "This is Jesus of Nazareth," while the great orchestra renders the theme, "The Star of Bethlehem."

"Ben-Hur" scored an immense success in Nashville two seasons ago. It is to be again staged in that city the week of February 19th to 24th, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. The management of the Vendome theatre will give careful attention to all orders for seats through the mail, providing the order is accompanied by a remittance. The scale of prices will range from 50 cents to $2.00. All railroads entering Nashville are to make low excursion rates for this attraction.

"BUSTER BROWN."

Fine Attraction Booked For Feb. 20th.

"Buster Brown," which is a farce, a musical comedy, a spectacle, all in one, will be presented at the opera house Feb. 20th. The well known managers secured the sole rights from the New York Herald and Richard F. Outcault and the life and funny incidents in "Buster's" career were dramatized. Nearly all of us have enjoyed "Buster" and are ready to take his stage career representations to our heart.

That we shall have a good performance, the amusement going public have had ample assurance, for the play is known to the complete satisfaction of every theatre-goer throughout the world. There is an elaborate scenic set, the company includes a large ballet, numerous up-to-date principals and a bevy of "American Beauties" of guaranteed beauty, all arrayed in the latest fashion.
